Fontainebleau, Nov. 2, N. S.

SINCE the 29th paſt nothing particular has happened in the King's Illneſs; the Small Pox having continued to come out in the beſt and moſt regular Manner, His Majeſty having been without Pain or Fever, and having ſlept without Interruption many Hours every Night; the preceeding Puſtules drying up and diſappearing gradually, as the others roſe and came to a Suppuration, and now the Puſtules are all dried and falling off. So that all Danger and Apprehenſion were over two Days ago. Yeſterday the King changed Linnen. On Thurſday the 4th Inſtant he will change his Apartment, and on Saturday or Monday next be purged; ſo that the Departure of the Court from hence is fixed for the 22d, when it is thought they will go to Marly, to continue there till Chriſtmas. Two of the King's Ships were launched the 20th paſt at Havre, the one called the Ruby deſtined for Martinique, the other called la Gironde to go to Toulon. M. Boudin, formerly Phyſician to the Dauphin, and firſt Phyſician to the Queen, is dead; and is ſucceeded by M. Helvetius. M. d'Armenonville, Father to M. de Morville, and formerly Keeper of the Seals, has received the Sacraments, and is at Extremity. Her moſt Chriſtian Majeſty went this Morning in Devotion to a Convent at Morette, a little Town two Leagues from hence.
